Number of days absence, 101. Wages per month, including board, $24. School order, $96.07. Taught by Miss Cora A. Emerson, of Pittsfield, an experienced and accomplished teacher. Her school was conducted with excellent order, and with satisfaction to all concerned.

The winter term commenced with high expectations of success under the auspices of the veteran teacher, Mr. John P. Clough, who early in the term was taken sick, and the school closed for the winter.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

Prudential Committee, Joshua Colby. Length of school, 9 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 27. Average attendance, 22½. Pupils not absent 2 days, 4. Pupils not tardy during the term, 15. Number of days absence, 216. Wages per month, including board, $33.08. School order, $85.24.

To say that this school was taught by Mr. John P. Clough is sufficient commendation and evidence of success.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

Prudential Committee, Charles Tebbetts. Length of school, 7 weeks.

Whole number of scholars, 12. Average attendance, 11. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 6. Pupils not tardy during the term, 7. Number of days absence, 34. Wages per month, including board, $17. School order, $73.27. This summer term was taught by Miss Laura A. Ayers, of North Barnstead. It was her first term of teaching, and she closed her school with honor to herself, her pupils showing happy advancement in their studies.

WINTER TERM.—Length of school, 7 2-5 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 17. Average attendance, 10. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 5. Number of days absence, 42. Wages per month, including board, $25. This term was commenced by Mr. E. W. Loughton of Gilmanton, and continued, with some intermission on account of ill health, three weeks, when it was surrendered to the Prudential Committee, who employed Frank T. Collinr, who conducted it through the term. It was his first effort in teaching, and he proved himself adapted to the duties he accepted. A good education is by no means all that qualifies one for a good teacher. Other and important requisites were his, of which he availed himself successfully.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

Prudential Committee, George Sargent. Length of school 6 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 21. Average attendance, 18½. Pupils not absent one-half a day during the term, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 3. Number of days absence 41½. Wages per month, including board, $18.00.

This term was taught by Miss Minnie O. Norris, of Pittsfield, a teacher of considerable experience and good literary attainments. The results of her labor were highly appreciated. Order, excellent.

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 8 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 19. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Average attendance, 13. Pupils not tardy during the term, 13. Number of days absence, 181. Wages per month, including board, $20. School order, $71.68.

The second term was taught by Miss Alice M. Jones, of Concord, a young lady of good intellectual qualifications and successful in her teachings. The school was unhappily interrupted by scarlet fever and whooping cough among the children, a large majority leaving school before its close, when but five remained in attendance.

DISTRICT NO. 5.

Prudential Committee, Joseph L. Jones. Length of school, 8 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 20. Average attendance, 17. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 2. Pupils not tardy during the term, 14. Number of days absence 100. Wages per month, including board, $20.

This school was taught by Miss O. Elnora Sanborn, an excellent teacher with considerable experience. Good order, prompt recitations, and evident improvement characterised the school.

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 9 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 23. Average attendance, 18½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 9. Number of days absence, 109. Wages per month, including board, $24. School order, $100.93.

This school was taught by Miss Estelle Lyford, of Canterbury, who has had extensive experience in teaching, and as your committee is informed, gave universal satisfaction to both parents and pupils,

DISTRICT NO. 6.

Prudential Committee, Thomas Cogswell. Length of school, 8 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 12. Average attendance, 11. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy one-half day, 5. Number of days absence, 45½. Wages per month, including board, $20.

The term was taught by Miss Mary Cogswell Burgess, a graduate of Girls' High School, Boston. This district enjoyed the benefit of her services last year and was truly fortunate to secure them again. A teacher of high order, she advanced her pupils in an extraordinary degree, as shown at the examination. In her register she remarks that "her scholars without exception were interested in their studies, dutiful in their behavior, and attendance good, one never absent and two others but once."

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 10 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 11. Average attendance, 9½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 4. Pupils not tardy during the term, 5. Number of days absence, 31. Wages per month, including board, $25. School order $77.23. Teacher, George C. Parsons, who, having both tact and talent to teach, did faithful and efficient work, as is ever the fact wherever a district can secure his services. Mr. Parsons would have been more in his element, had his scholars been older and more advanced in their studies.

DISTRICT NO. 7.

Prudential Committee, S. B. Flanders. Length of school 11 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 12. Average attendance, 9½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 2. Number of days absence, 137. Wages per month, including board, $26. School order, $38.81.

ONE TERM was taught by S. Wesley True, of Amesbury, Mass., and his first engagement in teaching. The result of his endeavors characterise him as possessed of no ordinary tact for the profession he has chosen. Through all the examination the prompt and correct answers given by his pupils, evidenced the fact of great faithfulness on the part of the teacher, and earnest zeal to excel on the part of the scholars.

DISTRICT NO. 8.

Prudential Committee, Matthias Weeks. Length of school, 6 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 17. Average attendance, 15½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 11. Pupils not tardy during the term, 4. Number of days absence, 6. Wages per month, including board, $10. School order, $65.91.

FIRST TERM was taught by Miss Myra F. Page, of Gilmanton, a truly conscientious teacher and scrupulously faithful in the discharge of duty. The children under her charge made handsome and praiseworthy advancement, notwithstanding a little "unpleasantness" occasioned by insubordination in one of her eldest pupils, which demanded and received the attention of your committee, and was amicably and satisfactorily settled. Order good.

SECOND TERM.—Unable to get the register for the second term of this district in season for printing, I cannot report particulars of this school.

Under the instruction of Miss ——— Morrell, of Belmont, this term of school has been remarkable for improvement. Thoroughly competent to teach, Miss Morrell interested her pupils in their studies, and advanced them wonderfully. The exercises of the closing examination were exceedingly interesting, especially the recitations of two young gentlemen, who, commencing the study of latin this term, made remarkable proficiency. Long may she teach.

DISTRICT NO. 9.

This school year has been one of continued prosperity and general advancement under the same arrangement with Gilmanton Academy, and the same instruction as the preceding year, William A. Deering, A. B. Preceptor, and Miss Alice C. Chapman, Preceptress.

This district, of right, ought to take the lead in scholarship, and show a better degree of advancement than any other school in town, inasmuch as it enjoys superior advantages in training and culture.

Length of school year, 24 weeks. Total attendance Fall term, 34. Average attendance, 30. Total attendance Winter term, 37. Average attendance, 30. School order, $217.93. Amount received by the academy for instruction, $200.00.

DISTRICT NO. 10.

Prudential Committee, Chauncy D. Grey. Length of school, 12 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 3. Average attendance, $1\frac{1}{2}$. Number of days absence 135 $\frac{1}{2}$. Wages per month, including board, \$16, School order, \$40.20.

This, a summer term, was taught by Miss Celia J. Gray, of Gilmanton. It was her first term of teaching, and, although qualified for the charge of a larger and more advanced school, she performed her duty faithfully, discouraging as it was that her school could number but three pupils.

DISTRICT NO. 11.

Prudential Committee, Sylvester J. Gale. Length of school, 11 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 12. Average attendance, $9\frac{3}{4}$. Pupils not absent one-half day, 2. Number of days absence, 115. Wages per month, including board, \$26. School order, \$66.08.

This school of one term, was taught by Miss Ida B. Nute, of Alton. The second term of District No. 12 was also under her charge, and reference to it will give some idea of the estimation in which she is held as a teacher. Miss Nute fully sustained the high reputation she has earned for herself in former schools.

The appearance of the school in every particular was of the most satisfactory character, especially the exercises upon the blackboard in arithmetic and algebra.

DISTRICT NO. 12.

Prudential Committee, Joseph B. Durrell. Length of school, 8 2-5 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 13. Average attendance, 11. Pupils not absent 2 days, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 11. Number of days absence, 81. Wages per month, including board, $20.80.

FIRST TERM was taught by Miss Clara F. Bean, of Gilmanton, a graduate at Gilmanton Academy. She labored earnestly for the advancement of her pupils, and not without evident success and results creditable to all concerned.

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 11 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 11. Average attendance, 10. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 4. Pupils not tardy during the term, 2. Number of days absence 50. School order, $110.19.

This term was taught by Miss Ida B. Nute, of Alton, an experienced, accomplished and earnest teacher, and highly appreciated in this district, having taught here the summer term of '75. The appearance and improvement of the school was wholly satisfactory to your committee and all interested. Miss Nute informs me that one of her little girls name Ella A. Poor, aged five years, has spelled through the third reader this term, without misspelling a word, certainly a very remarkable fact.

DISTRICT NO. 13.

Prudential Committee, R. H. Jones. Length of school, 7 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 12. Average attendance 10½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 4. Number of days absence, 40½. Wages per month, including board, $20.

The school was taught by Miss Jennie M. Potter, of Gilmanton. This was her second engagement in this district, evincing how greatly her services are appreciated. She admirably sustained her former well merited reputation as a teacher. Good order evident.

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 7 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 14. Average attendance, 12 22-35. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 5. Number of days absence, 37. Wages per month, including board, $19. School order, $68.32.

This school was taught by Miss Cora B. Gale, of Gilmanton, and was her second term of instruction, and most admirably she acquitted herself as a teacher. From her deportment in school, one might readily suppose she had had long experience in this department of duty, so beautifully did her school appear, and such proficiency manifest. Order excellent.

DISTRICT NO. 14.

Prudential Committee, John A. Maxfield. Length of school, 8 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 14. Average attendance, 14. Pupils not absent one-half day, 14. Pupils not tardy during the term, 14. Number of days absence, 0. Wages per month, including board, $16.

FIRST TERM.—This term was taught by Miss Marie Sanderson, of Gilmanton, who displayed good tact in instructing those under her charge, and at the close of the school, evident improvement was noticeable. A new feature, for this town, so far as I am acquainted, was introduced by her in school, to wit: Vocal music. It was truly interesting and pleasant, and is regularly practiced in city schools, and it serves, it is believed, as a happy relaxation from study, pleasantly, and perhaps profitably, diverting the mind for a few moments each half-day.

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 11 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 13. Average attendance, 12 19-55. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 8. Number of days absence 36. Wages per month, including board, $20. School order, $51.04.

The school was taught by Miss Lena A. Sargent, of Pittsfield, who performed her duties with great energy, promptitude and success. With much experience she managed her school admirably and advanced her scholars to the entire satisfaction of the district.

DISTRICT NO. 15.

Prudential Committee, John Adams. Length of school, 11 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 18. Average attendance, 12 46-55. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 2. Pupils not tardy during the term, 9. Number of days absence, 285. Wages per month, including board, $20.00. School order, $51 22.

The school taught by Miss Ida B. Sandorn, of Loudon. Mr. Adams was indeed fortunate in securing the services of Miss Sanborn. She has not only merited but receives the universal gratitude of the district for her faithfulness and efficiency in advancing the best interests of her pupils. Order unexceptionable.

DISTRICT NO. 16.

Prudential Committee, Nathan Batchelder. Length of school, 15 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 11. Average attendance, 9 1-6. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 3. Pupils not tardy during the term, 3. Number of days absence, 51. Wages per month, including board, $16. School order, $74.91.

This term was taught by Miss Lucy A. Berry, of Barnstead, a young lady of good literary attainments. The term was a long one, with a short vacation intervening after the first six weeks. The closing exercises at the examination gave good evidence of faithful thorough instruction and good advancement in all the classes.

DISTRICT NO. 17.

Prudential Committee, Madison C. Lamprey. Length of school 13 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 12. Average attendance, 7½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 1. Pupils not tardy during the term, 4. Number of days absence, 63. Wages per month, including board, $24. School order, $60.56.

The school was taught by Miss Susie E. Farrar, of Belmont, a young lady well qualified to teach and entered upon her duties with zeal and determination to deserve the commendation of the district, which, it is well known she accomplished.

DISTRICT NO. 18.

Prudential Committee, C. H. Shannon. Length of school, 8½ weeks. Whole number of scholars, 46. Average attendance, 35. Pupils not absent one-half a day during the term, 18. Number of days absence, 452. Wages per month, including board, $24.

This term was taught by Miss Jennie Edgerly, of Gilmanton. Each visit to this school was of a highly interesting character. Admirably qualified to teach, and with the advantage of ample experience, Miss Edgerly conducted her school to happy and praiseworthy results, with excellent, even military order.

SECOND TERM.—Length of school, 8 weeks. Whole number of scholars, 49. Average attendance, 45½. Pupils not absent one-half a day, 19. Pupils not tardy during the term, 36. Number of days absence, 150. Wages per month, including board, $41. School order, $173.83.

Second term, was taught by George W. Dealand, a gentleman of good erudition, most happily adapted to teach a large and well advanced school. Perfectly at home and at ease governing without appearance of restraint the best order prevailed through all the hours of examination. Recitations were of excellent character, exercises on the blackboard given with promptness, dispatch and correctness, indicating the faithfulness and energy of both teacher and pupil. The exhibit of book-keeping was very creditable to those engaged in that department.

REMARKS.

It is especially gratifying to believe that the public schools in the town of Gilmanton, as they have appeared at their several examinations, were never in more satisfactory condition than in the year last past. Nothing, with one slight exception in district No. 8, has occurred to disturb their harmony and prosperity, and without exception they have been conducted by able, and very generally experienced teachers; while those who for the first time the current year, have, by their determined faithfulness and unceasing perseverance merited the gratitude of their several districts and doubtless enjoy, as they deserve, approving consciences.

In surrendering the position imposed upon me by your suffrages, I am constrained to refer again to the great necessity of more uniformity in text-books. Although some slight improvement in this direction is discoverable, the difficulties, hindrances and damage to effectual advancement in schools are still most glaring and objectionable. What think you of a class of nine in arithmetic with seven different text-books? Must not these seven classes occupy disproportioned time and attention to the injury of other studies and scholars? And suppose the same enquiries applicable to geography, grammar, history, &c., as is the case in a greater or less degree, how can a teacher be expected to do duty effectually or with satisfaction either to himself or his pupils, or the community employing him? Such multiplicity of text-books is clearly and grossly wrong, and by all means should be obviated. This matter is well understood and remedied in Boston, New York, and elsewhere, where educational interests are best understood and nurtured. No sufficient reason obtains why parents and guardians in Gilmanton should hesitate in such reform, but realize its importance, and the coming year place their schools upon the best possible basis.

What may be the best mode of bringing about uniformity in text-books, the lack of which has for so many years been a subject of complaint with both committees and teachers, I do not undertake to determine; but would respectfully suggest that at the next school meeting of each district in town, one of the duties specified by warrant shall be the careful and earnest consideration and effective action on this important subject. Thus assembled, resolve that this difficulty, this serious impediment to the better success of your schools shall no longer exist, that you will heartily and effectually co-operate with your Superintendent and teachers to effect such reform as will result in the prosperity and glory of every nursery of education within your limits. Your legislators have, years since, had this among other matters of educational interest under consideration, and enacted laws corrective in their intention, of this evil; conferring liberal authority upon your superintendent of schools, in this direction; yet never can he hope to accomplish the end designed in such legislation, without the co-operation of the patrons of the schools.

Great credit is due to the several Prudential Committees for their excellent selection of teachers, yet it is somewhat surprising that the great majority of them seem to consider their whole duty accomplished when they find their selection installed in office. Perhaps it is the fact. Yet they would hardly employ a person in any other capacity, and never observe whether "the laborer is worthy of his hire." It is to be hoped for in the future, that teachers and schools may in a much larger degree enjoy the light of their countenance, thereby encourage their teachers, in the performance of duty, and the children in their studies.

Your committee takes pleasure in reporting that considerable more attention has been paid to chirography this than was given to it the last year, although by no means has this improvement been so marked as was hoped for and expected. District No. 16 and 17, excel all other districts in this particular, inasmuch as all who should write did write, and are credited with praiseworthy proficiency. Encouragement in this art from parents and guardians is earnestly invited. Cheerfully furnish your children with the necessary means of practice. The importance of this department of instruction, I fear, is not fully estimated. Mr. Edmunds, our late State Superintendent of Public Instruction, says: "Primary scholars should print or write with a pencil or crayon: other pupils should use the pen. Every school should have daily exercises in writing or drawing by every pupil, unless the pupil is receiving private instruction in those branches. The teacher should give his entire attention to the writing or drawing, during the time of the exercises."

It is noteworthy, that citizens and parents have visited their respective schools the past year to greater extent than formerly has been the fact, evidencing that deeper interest obtains with them for their success, as well as more fully to understand the progress of improvement made by their children or charges from time to time. It is believed these visits add much to the interest the teachers feel for their pupils, while it serves to encourage their scholars in their endeavors to perfect themselves for examination seasons.

Your Committee regrets that for several reasons wholly beyond his control, either inclemency of the weather, drifted state of the roads, &c., a few of the schools were not visited the second time, on days appointed for examinations. Nevertheless his report is correct, as in such cases he has utilized information received from reliable sources.

Respectfully submitted by

A. E. HOVEY,

School Committee.
